

A Critical Assessment of International Post-Conflict Reconstruction Efforts in Afghanistan

By Florian Heyden

GRIN Verlag Aug 2007, 2007. Taschenbuch. Book Condition: Neu. 210x148x2 mm. This item is printed on demand - Print on Demand Neuware - Essay from the year 2006 in the subject Politics - International Politics - Region: Far East, grade: Distinction - very good, King`s College London (Department of War Studies), course: Conflict, Security and Development, 23 entries in the bibliography, language: English, comment: It has now been almost half a decade since the fall of the Taliban and billions of dollars have been pledged for reconstruction. Judging from numerous indicators, Afghanistan should be on its way to be once again a 'functioning state' we will assess if this is really the case by considering socio-historical factors of Afghanistan's current situation, followed by a critical discussion of post-conflict reconstruction efforts as well as underlying structural problems undermining these efforts. , abstract: With the adoption of a new constitution in 2004, Afghanistan emerged anew as a member of the international community after decades of anti-Soviet jihad, interfactional and interethnic civil war, and wars of conquest and resistance by and against the radical-Islamic Taliban movement. While clearly every society emerging from armed conflict requires some degree of reconstruction, the needs of Afghanistan...
